

THE NMUN - NY 2012 VIDEO CONTEST

All delegations attending NMUN-NY 2012 are invited to record a short video documenting their team's preparation, participation, and experience at home and in New York. With the United Nations itself as a backdrop, the video contest provides an opportunity to creatively showcase your organization's enthusiasm and determination for Model UN, and the productivity and excitement of the conference. Show us why your organization had the best NMUN experience, and you could win.

Requirements:

- Videos must be 2-6 minutes in length, including credits. Any videos over 6 minutes will not be considered.
- Videos should focus on Model UN activities leading up to, during, and following NMUN-NY 2012. These might include (but are definitely not limited to) preparation for the conference, team building activities, participation in committee or caucus sessions, or sightseeing in New York.
- Videos should be uploaded by 1 May 2011 to youtube.com or vimeo.com (size and format requirements will apply, click here or here respectively for more information). Submit information below and notification of posting to video@nmun.org.

Judging: NMUN staff will judge submitted videos and announce winners by 15 May 2012. Judging criteria will include quality, content, and creativity (make your video as fun and unique as your NMUN experience!)

Prizes: Prizes will include two $1,000 scholarships and two $500 scholarships, applied toward fees for a future NMUN Conference.

Note about conference filming:

Ultimately, the work of delegates and staff members in committee sessions is the highest priority during the conference. Camera operators should be courteous of the work of delegates and staff and generally use caution and common sense when exiting, entering, filming, and moving around in committee rooms. Camera operators should respect all requests made by staff members regarding distractions due to filming; failure to do so may result in disqualification from the contest.
